BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEETING-- At its January 15 meeting the university's Board of Trustees announced tuition increases in a number of schools and the receipt from honorary trustee Harry F. Duncan of gifts totaling more than one million dollars to be applied to the construction of a new hospital wing.

The schedule of tuition raises is as follows:

--For undergraduate study in Columbian College, the School of Education, the School of Government and Business Administration, the School of Public and International Affairs, and for on-campus courses taken by undergraduate students in the College of General Studies, an increase from $1,250 per semester to $1,300 for a full-time program, and for part-time programs, an increase from $94 to $98 per semester hour.

--For undergraduate study in the School of Engineering and Applied Science an increase from $1,300 to $1,350 for a full-time program and an increase from $96 to $100 per semester hour for a part-time program. Semester hour charges for graduate study in the school will also be increased by this same amount.

--In the National Law Center study for the Juris Doctor's and Master's degrees and for Continuing Legal Education Study increases will be from $1,250 to $1,300 for full-time programs and from $96 to $100 for each semester hour. The yearly rate for study for the degree of Doctor of Juridical Science will be raised from $2,600 to $2,700.

--For graduate study in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, the School of Public and International Affairs, the School of Government and Business Administration, and for graduate and undergraduate courses in the Division of University Students, there will be an increase for each semester hour from $94 to $98. Undergraduate and graduate study in the Summer Sessions will also be increased by this amount.

--For undergraduate and graduate study in off-campus courses of the College of General Studies fees will increase from $70 to $74.

--The Residence Fee, charged each student permitted to maintain "In Residence" status during any semester of absence from the university or after completion of tuition requirements, will be increased from $94 to $98.

--The Marvin Center Fee will be raised from $46.50 to $50.50 per semester for full-time students and from $4.35 to $4.75 for part-time students per semester hour.

--For the degree of Doctor of Medicine the fee will be increased for two semesters from $5,000 to an amount not to exceed $12,500. The Board of Trustees approved this amount in March 1975 with the understanding that the final level of this fee would be predicated on the availability of Federal support through a medical-dental or similar grant. At this time the amount of such funding remains undetermined.

The Board stated that it is "deeply concerned about the effect of this decision on the students in the medical school. Its membership is aware of the uncertainty confronting the students now, with the possibility of an enormous financial burden to come. At the same time the Board is only too conscious of its responsibility to maintain the fiscal stability of the institution. It, therefore, pledges its continued efforts to obtain external funding so that the tuition figure can be kept at the lowest possible level."

The Board announced that the university's hospital has received gifts and pledges of more than one million dollars from Harry F. Duncan of Washington and the Harry F. Duncan Foundation. These gifts will be applied toward construction of the new 23rd Street wing of the hospital, to be named the Harry F. Duncan Pavilion. The contributions have been made in memory of Mr. Duncan's daughter, Kathleen. Mr. Duncan is chairman of the board of Little Tavern Shops, Inc. He has had a long-time interest in cardiac research. He served on the Board of Trustees from 1967 to 1974 before becoming an honorary trustee.

PARKING TAX SUSTAINED-- The Consortium of Universities of the Washington Metropolitan Area requested that the Reverend Jerry A. Moore, Jr., D.C. Council member-at-large, propose an amendment to the revenue act of 1975 to exempt universities and hospitals from the recently imposed parking tax of 8%. The amendment failed of adoption at the second session, 39th legislative meeting, Council of the District of Columbia, held on January 13.

RESIDENCE HALL STAFF POSITIONS INFORMATION MEETING-- The meeting for all persons interested in applying for 1976-1977 Residence Hall staff positions announced for Thursday, January 22, at 4 p.m. will take place at that day and hour but at a different location. The meeting will be held in Building C, Room 100.

BENEFITS -- SUMMARY PLAN DESCRIPTIONS

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) passed by Congress in 1974 has required numerous administrative changes in all of the benefit plans provided for employees. In the near future, every employee will receive through the mail an envelope containing a Summary Plan Description of each of our benefit plans.

These Summary Plan Descriptions will provide a brief description of the plan and sufficient information to answer most of the questions an employee is likely to have concerning each benefit plan. One change to be noted is the elimination of the option to repurchase in the TIAA-CREF Retirement Plan. Other changes are primarily concerned with the manner in which the plans are administered and have no effect on the benefit itself.

All employees are encouraged to retain these descriptions in a safe place for reference when required.

UNIVERSITY SECRUITY OFFICERS' PERFORMANCE LEADS TO THE ARREST OF SUSPECT -- The performance of university secruity officers Carl E. Mozee, Jr., and George M. Brittle on the afternoon of February 14 of this year led to the arrest of James A. Roberts, a suspect in three incidents of rape at the University Parking Garage, one in November of 1975, and two in February of this year. Roberts was apprehended by police in Atlanta, Georgia, on sexual assault charges. The arrest was announced by a spokesman for the Metropolitan Police on June 17.

The officers' performance was commemded earlier this year by Vice President for Administration and Research Carl J. Lange and by Director of Safety and Secruity Harry W. Geiglein.

In a letter to each officer, Dr. Lange write, "Your effective and efficient response in this situation reflects well on yourselves and University secruity. You deserve the gratitude of the entire University community for your service."

Officer Mozee was commended by Director Geiglein for his alertness in associating the suspect with a police artist's sketch and for his efforts to detain the individual leaving the Parking Garage as he escaped in a nearby vehicle.

Officer Brittle was commended for his efforts, despite personal risk, in attempting to flag down the vehicle used by the suspect. He escaped injury by leaping from the path of the car when the driver attempted to run him down. A passing motorist observing the incident offered to assist Officer Brittle and a chase followed until the fleeing car was lost in heavy traffic, but not before the license plate number had been recorded.

It was as the result of information supplied by Officers Mozee and Brittle of the description and license number of the fleeing car that Roberts was sought by the Metropolitan Police. The search led to his eventual arrest in Atlanta. Anticipated action in Washington against Roberts will await disposition of charges he faces in Atlanta.

MEDICAL SUPPORT -- A check in the amount of $2,995,000 has been received by the University to provide a subsidy of $5000 for each of the 599 enrolled medical students for the year 1975-76. The funds have been granted the University under the provisions of the District of Columbia Medical and Dental Manpower Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-650, Title III, as amended) and have been approved for fiscal year 1976. Under the same grant funds have been provided for Georgetown University's Schools of Medicine and Dentistry. The extension of this bill has been authorized by acts of both houses of Congress for the school year 1976-77 and the authorizing bill was signed by President Ford on June 4, 1976.

HISTORIC HOUSE AT 1925 F STREET TO BE MOVED -- The university will preserve the 1840s-vintage townhouse now at 1925 F Street, owned by the university and leased to the 1925 F Street Club, by moving it to another location on the campus University Vice President and Treasurer Charles E. Diehl has announced.

The plan to relocate the house at 610 21st Street, about a block from the present location, is included in a rezoning and planned unit development application, filed July 12 with the Zoning Commission of the District of Columbia for construction of an office building for the World Bank within the block bounded by 19th, 20th, F and G Streets, N.W.

Vice President Diehl said that the university's decision to move the house and use it for academic offices was made after "an architectural feasibility study determined that the 130-odd-year-old house could be transported without sustaining significant structural damage."

The original three-story house built in the 1840s by Georgetown businessman Alexander Ray will be moved some time after October 31 of this year, when the 1925 F Street Club's lease expires. Later additions to the rear of the house will not be relocated.

The preservation of the Ray House brings to three the number of landmark structures that the university will save or enhance as part of the planned unit development proposed for the block that is to be rezoned. The T-shaped structure for the World Bank will be built around two adjoining 1800-vintage townhouses, which will remain standing in the 600 block of 19th Street. It is expected that the Concordia United Church of Christ will stay at the corner of 20th and G Streets, N.W.

The two 19th Street townhouses were originally owned by John Lenthall, superintendent of construction of the U.S. Capitol. They appear on the National Register of Historic Places as Category II landmarks. The Ray House is not on the National Register, but is listed as a Category II landmark in the District of Columbia Register.

The Lenthall house at 614 19th Street is owned by the university. The adjoining house at 612 is privately owned. The Concordia Church, which also is not a university holding, is concurrently filing an application for rezoning and a planned unit development for its property within the block. Immediate plans call for the continued use of this property as a church.

The architectural team of Vlastimil Koubek, Pietro Belluschi, and Hideo Sasaki, which will design the World Bank building, will incorporate the Lenthall houses into a landscaped setting adjoining the proposed landscaped promenade at the corner of 19th and G Streets. This will facilitate access to the building for employees from the main Bank buildings, diagonally across the street. The staff of the International Monetary Fund, which has close working relations with the World Bank, occupies the building to the north.

"This whole block (bounded by 19th, 20th, F and G Streets) lies within the path of orderly development for office use which converges in the square from the north, east, and south," Mr. Diehl explained. "The logical long-term use for this site is for office space."

Construction of an office building on the proposed site is consistent with the university's 1970 master plan, which calls for high-density commercial development along major thoroughfares, including Pennsylvania Avenue and 19th Street. The master plan was approved by both the National Captial Planning Commission and the District of Columbia Board of Zoning Adjustment. The development of this property is part of an overall, balanced university financial program, Mr. Diehl said.

Negotiations between the university and the World Bank are expected to be completed by the end of the year.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARY BRIEFCASE/PARCEL CHECKING SERVICE -- The University Library has available a briefcase/parcel checking service located at the H Street entrance to the library. Since space is limited, those using the service are requested to leave only briefcases or larger packages while they are using the library facilities.

GWU CLUB SUMMER HOURS -- Beginning today, Monday, July 19, the George Washington University Club will operate on the summer hours of 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday for luncheon service. After 3 p.m. the club will be open for private groups only. The club will return to full operation on Tuesday, September 7, the day after Labor Day.

Faculty members and students may address questions concerning the university's equal employment opportunity programs to Marianne R. Phelps, assistant provost for affirmative action, 676-6508. Administrative and staff employees may contact Ginger Chappell, director of equal employment activities, 676-7402.

This first publication of EEO NOTES focuses on the university's Affirmative Action Plan for the Handicapped. The university adopted and published this plan in August of 1974. Any employee may read the entire plan in the Office of Personnel Services, 2114 G Street, N.W., or in the Office of the Director of Equal Employment Activities, 6th Floor, Rice Hall, 2121 Eye Street, N.W., between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Employees working evenings or nights may make special arrangements to read the plan by calling 676-7402 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The Affirmative Action Plan for the Handicapped states that the university will undertake the following courses of action:

1. To undertake positive efforts to locate, identify, and utilize handicapped employees;

2. To make reasonable accommodations to the limitations of handicapped employees, including positive efforts to eliminate, when possible, unreasonable physical barriers;

3. To provide counseling for handicapped employees and/or supervisors to work out problems and to provide guidance;

4. To provide for the fair and impartial consideration of all complaints of discrimination through the provisions for grievance outlined in the Faculty Code and Manual of Personnel Directives.

In April of this year, the Department of Labor published regulations which state the obligations of all Federal contractors to engage in affirmative action for the handicapped. The Federal regulations define a handicapped individual as "any person who (1) has a physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more of such person's major life activities, (2) has a record of such impairment or (3) is regarded as having such an impairment." The law requires that employees who feel they qualify as handicapped using the above definition be provided the opportunity to identify themselves. Employees who so wish to identify themselves may do so by returning the form in this issue of The Monday Report to the appropriate office as indicated on the form. The information supplied will be treated with the utmost confidence. No information will be divulged without the employee's permission.

FRENCH CONTEMPORARY ARTS FESTIVAL -- A French contemporary arts festival made up of a series of theatrical and musical events, cinema, art exhibitions and workshops will be presented at the university beginning Thursday, October 7, and continuing through Tuesday, October 19. (Schedule page 2).

The festival, a gift of the French Government to the United States in observance of the Bicentennial, will be presented under the auspices of universities in seven U.S. cities. The festival at George Washington is the first. The aim of the festival program is to present outstanding recent French creative work.

Peter Brook's production of The Ik, an adaptation of Colin Turnbull's The Mountain People will be done in the Marvin Theatre. It is a production of the Paris-based International Centre of Theatre Research. Le Pavillon au Bord de la Riviere, an ancient Chinese play staged by Bernard Sobel with original music by Betsy Jolas, will have one performance October 18 in Lisner Auditorium. It is a production of the Theatre de Gennevilliers.

Two photography exhibitions, "Young French Photography - Part 3" in the Dimock Gallery, and "French Photography 1975-1976" in the Third Floor Gallery of the Marvin Center, will be part of the festival.

Films by outstanding French directors will be shown, beginning Thursday, October 7, as well as a number of documentary films which were produced for French television, also beginning October 7.

Artists who, along with the performers, will be on campus during the festival include Peter Brook, Betsy Jolas, Bernard Sobel, and film director and star Jacques Tati.

Students from the Washington area universities will have opportunities to attend workshops and conferences.

All the festival events are free except The Ik performances and Le Pavillon au Bord de la Riviere. For these there is a charge of $2 for students with ID, and $4 for others.

PHYSICAL PLANT ANNOUNCEMENT -- The Physical Plant Department would like to advise the university community of the reason for the slowed responses to calls for service for heating and air conditioning problems.

Only six out of the 20 positions for maintenance mechanics at the university are filled. These are the technicians who solve the heating and air conditioning problems. The Physical Plant Department is encountering severe difficulties in recruiting more maintenance mechanics. Contract assistance is being used to the fullest extent possible and the in-house staff is working as much overtime as possible as well.

Unfortunately, the slow response to calls will continue until the Physical Plant Department is able to recruit and train new technicians. Those needing service should continue to call 6706.

NEW ACADEMIC EDITOR -- Mrs. Judy Arkes has assumed the position of academic editor at the university. A graduate of the University of Illinois (Bachelor of Arts with a major in English literature) and of George Washington (Master of Arts in Teaching in elementary education), she was associated with Scott, Foresman and Company, the Chicago-based publishers of educational materials, editing the house journal and working in public relations. For the past ten years she has held positions in teaching and administration in Amherst, Massachusetts, at the same time doing independent editorial work on manuscripts that have appeared in such journals as Commentary and The Supreme Court Review.

LETITIA WOODS BROWN MEMORIAL LECTURE FUND -- Friends, colleagues, and former students of the late Dr. Letitia Woods Brown are creating a fund for the endowment of the Letitia Woods Brown Memorial Lecture in Urban History. Dr. Brown was professor of American history and civilization at George Washington at the time of her death in August 1976. She had been a member of the faculty since 1971. The lecture will be delivered each year by an urban historian of national reputation in conjunction with the annual Conference on Washington, D.C., Historical Studies. Dr. Brown was one of the founders and co-chairmen of the conference which is jointly sponsored by the Columbia Historical Society and The George Washington University.

Contributions, which are tax deductible, may be made payable to the Letitia Woods Brown Memorial Lecture Fund and forwarded to Associate Professor of Philosophy Roderick French, who is a trustee of the fund. Professor French's office is in Room 409, Monroe Hall, 2115 G Street, N.W., telephone 676-7565.

INSURED LOANS TO STUDENTS IN HEALTH PROFESSIONAL SCHOOLS -- On Tuesday, October 12, President Ford signed the Health Professions Educational Assistance Act of 1976 (H.R. 5546). This bill is of great importance to all in medicine, dentistry, and the allied health professions throughout our nation.

Title IV of the act contains the Federal Program of Insured Loans to Graduate Students in Health Professions Schools. This federally guaranteed loan program is of particular interest to The George Washington University School of Medicine. The sum of $500,000,000 was authorized for fiscal year 1977-1978 and will enable up to 50% of each class in the health professions schools in the United States to borrow up to $10,000 a year for a maximum of five years. The loan can be repaid over a fifteen-year period after graduation, or a credit of $10,000 per year can be obtained by service in an area designated by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. This service may be in the armed forces, in the public health services, or working with under-privileged or under-served areas. This loan forgiveness provision would be in addition to normal earnings in these areas.

RED CROSS BLOOD DRIVE -- On Wednesday, November 3, between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the Marvin Center, the university will be host to a blood drive as a participating group of the Red Cross Blood Program. 125 donors are needed. Those giving blood will be provided coverage for one year for the total blood needs of themselves and their families, including spouses, children under the age of 18, parents, parents-in-law, and any dependent relatives living in their homes.

Those who wish to donate should call 676-6555 for an appointment. The "appointments only" system will be used this time as it was in last spring's drive. Process time for individual donors, with this system, is slightly less than one hour. Those who cannot be certain of a specific time, but who wish to donate, can go to the Red Cross Center at 2025 E Street, N.W. (less than a five-minute walk from campus) which is equipped to take walk-in donors.

COMBINED TRUCK BOOK PICKUP -- Because of the United Parcel Service strike the University Bookstore, in co-operation with several area college bookstores, will be picking up books in a combined truck shipment for direct delivery to each bookstore from seven major publishers. The publishers are: Random House, Inc.; McGraw Hill Book Co.; John Wiley and Sons, Inc.; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc.; The MacMillan Co.; Prentice Hall, Inc.; and Harcourt Brace and Jovanovich, Inc. The bookstore asks that any adoptions that have not yet been returned be sent as soon as possible to Brent Beeson, textbook manager at the bookstore. All adoptions will be processed in order of receipt.

UNIVERSITY TO CONSTRUCT ACADEMIC BUILDING FOR FACULTY OFFICES, CLASSROOMS -- Construction of a $9.8 million academic building that will be used primarily for faculty offices is planned for next year by the university, Vice President and Treasurer Charles E. Diehl announced Friday, October 22. The Board of Trustees approved further planning for the project at its stated meeting the day before, Thursday, October 21.

The proposed building will be the first of a planned three-phase "academic cluster" that will be built at the corner of 22nd and H Streets, N.W., which is now used for university parking.

The academic facility is to be constructed in clustered units graduated in height from three-or-four stories to a maximum of seven stories. Vice President Diehl said the building will provide office space for faculty members in the School of Government and Business Administration and the School of Engineering and Applied Science, whose offices are currently scattered throughout the campus. It will also provide special purpose areas for music, continuing education, and other activities, as well as a computer center. With the cluster plan, there will be interior walkways and open spaces, and eventually a second-story-level promenade linking the facility with the university library and parking garage across the street.

The "academic cluster," part of the university's campus development plan, will be financed in part by revenue received from the construction of a proposed office building for the World Bank on university-owned property within the block bounded by 19th, 20th, F and G Streets, N.W.

A pamphlet, "One Building Builds Another," describing the university's building program, is available from the Office of the Vice President and Treasurer, telephone 676-6600.

PRESIDENT ELLIOTT CALLS FOR CREATION OF MONITORING INSTITUTE -- Declaring that the growing intrusion of the federal government into the affairs of America's universities will result in the destruction of academic freedom, President Elliott has called for the creation of an independent national institute that would conduct "a broad-scale surveillance of all existing and new legislation and regulation affecting higher education."

President Elliott made his recommendation in the opening statement of the university's 1976 annual report, issued Thursday, October 21. The establishment of an "institute for the preservation of the independence of higher education," he said, would be one important way of bringing this serious situation before the American public. The institute, he explained, would, "examine those laws and regulations already on the books and see what objective study can reveal of their effects on colleges and universities." The institute would not lobby for more government funds for higher education, more grants, more research monies or for more preferential treatment, he stated.

As the federal regulatory agencies work between public pressure and the intent of Congress, Dr. Elliott said, they seem "all too often to be forced to take positions on controversial matters, the authority for which is not always clear."

Government policies stemming from both statutes and regulations, he said, "now constitute such a tortuous labyrinth that no one person or no one group can be expected to understand the cause-and-effect relationships of the total."

Such an institute, Dr. Elliott explained, would serve as "an umbrella for a group of people who would devote their talents to a broad-scale surveillance of all existing and new legislation and regulation....Its experts could serve, too, as consultants to those in government who genuinely want to see the worthwhile goals of governmental action achieved within the universities, but who also appreciate the strength that comes from the traditional freedom exercised by these same institutions."

DR. BOWLES NAMED DEAN FOR ACADEMIC AFFAIRS -- L. Thompson Bowles, M.D., Ph.D., was elected by the Board of Trustees to the post of Dean for Academic Affairs of the George Washington University Medical Center, effective immediately, at the October 21st board meeting. In this position, he will be responsible for all aspects of medical and allied health education and student affairs and for the research activity of the faculty of the School of Medicine and Health Sciences.

Dr. Bowles, a thoracic surgeon, joined the full-time faculty in 1973 as an associate professor of surgery and associate dean for curricular and student affairs. From 1971 to 1973, he was director of the Division of Curriculum and Instruction at the Association of American Medical Colleges. In this post, he founded the AAMC Curriculum Directory. Prior to 1973 he was in the private practice of thoracic and cardiovascular surgery in New York.

As a member of the American College of Surgeons Committee on Continuing Education, Dr. Bowles chairs the Test Item Committee for cardiovascular and thoracic questions for the Surgical Education and Self-Assessment Program. Dr. Bowles also holds membership in the AMA, the D.C. Medical Society, the American College of Chest Physicians and the American Society of Thoracic Surgeons.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Duke University, Dr. Bowles received his M.D. from Duke in 1957 and was elected to Alpha Omega Alpha that same year. He holds the M.S. in Surgery (1964) and the Ph.D. in Education (1971) from New York University. He has written extensively for medical journals and publications.

NEW RATES FOR BLUE CROSS/BLUE SHIELD AND HMO -- As a result of a re-evaluation of the George Washington University group rates by Group Hospitalization, Inc., the university has now been informed that the rate information for premiums previously given is incorrect. The information given here supersedes that announced on October 4.

The revised premiums result in an increase in the Blue Cross/Blue Shield rates and in the Prepaid Group Practice (HMO) rates. Group Hospitalization, Inc. has agreed to delay the effective date of the new rates from January 1, 1977 to February 1, 1977 and to extend the open enrollment period through Friday, December 10, 1976.

During the open enrollment period for Blue Cross and Blue Shield and Prepaid Group Practice (HMO) the following changes in coverage will be permitted: any new enrollment, the addition of Blue Shield, the addition of Sponsored Contract, the addition of dependents, change from individual to family coverage, transfer from Blue Cross/Blue Shield to Prepaid Group Practice or vice versa, transfer between George Washington University and Georgetown University Prepaid Group Practice plans, provided, in all cases, that the employee has first completed a six-month period in the plan from which he or she is transferring.

The same maternity benefits will be provided by the university Blue Cross/Blue Shield Plan under the individual coverage as are currently provided under the family coverage effective February 1,1977.

The university has been advised by Group Hospitalization, Inc. that the rate increases are necessary because of increase in the cost of malpractice insurance, increased utilization by subscribers, and cost increases in prices for food, fuel, and other health-care supply items.

The new rates for the plans offered through the university, including increased university contributions, are shown on page 2 of this edition.

Certain special conditions will apply to the plans. There will be a ten-month waiting period for pre-existing conditions, tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy,

			PREPAID GROUP PRACTICE (HMO)

* Since employees who enroll in the HMO plan are not entitled to the University's Major Medical Insurance coverage, the University's contribution will consist of the Major Medical premium of $2.93 for individual coverage and $6.82 for family coverage, paid by the University for non HMO subscribers, and $19.44, which represents the premium for the employee's Blue Cross coverage. The employee will need to pay the balance.

 University's Contribution for "Over 65" will apply only to full time active employees. Retired employees must pay the total premium.

Since premiums are deducted in advance of the month of coverage, employees who are paid monthly will find the change in their December paychecks. Employees who are paid weekly or bi-weekly will find the change in one of their January paychecks.

Ten-month faculty members will have three months' premiums taken from their June checks to provide continuous coverage during the summer unless the Payroll Office is notified in writing that this should not be done.

sterilization, and maternity on any new enrollment or upon the addition of a spouse or dependent to a new family contract or Sponsored Contract, with the exception of a newborn child born under a family contract. The waiting period does not apply with regard to physician services under Prepaid Group Practice. Any married employee with an individual contract can only change to a family contract during the open enrollment period extending through December 10. Coverage for this change will be effective February 1, 1977.

Orientation sessions have been scheduled for employees who desire more detailed information with representatives from Blue Cross/Blue Shield and HMO conducting the sessions. The schedule is as follows:

Thursday, November 18	2 to 4 p.m.	Marvin Center, 800 21st St.N.W. Room 410-415
Friday, November 19	2 to 4 p.m.	Ross Hall, 2300 Eye St. N.W. Room 101

For further information, call Records and Benefits, 676-4480.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNI TRIPS -- Each year the Alumni Relations Office sponsors a number of overseas trips for alumni of the university. Members of the university's faculty and staff are also eligible for these low-cost charter tours. The current schedule for 1977 includes trips to Santo Domingo (January 3-10), Russia (January 26-February 3), Egypt (February 19-March 1), and Tahiti (March 29-April 5). Other trips are planned and will be announced when details are made final. Those interested in participating in any of the trips listed should call the Alumni Relations Office at 676-6435 for further information. Department heads are requested to make this information available to their staffs.

THANKSGIVING RECESS -- The university will be closed from Thursday, November 25, through Sunday, November 28, for the Thanksgiving Recess.
